Notice to HumiSeal Customers

Dear Customer,

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security has identified various industry sectors the operations of which comprise the nation's "critical infrastructure." Both the state and federal guidelines indicate that our Pittsburgh operations fall within the definition of essential and critical infrastructure classifications. Therefore, the production of HumiSeal products will continue at this time and with all the precautions required by law.

As always, our first priority is your health and safety. We will continue to take appropriate precautions to address the outbreak by following guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) for cleaning and social distancing and we ask you to take the same precautions both inside and outside of work.

Our work at Chase is critical in the fight against COVID-19. We are an important piece of the supply chain for many essential businesses and markets. The solutions we create are vital to critical infrastructure and lifesaving equipment. Pittsburgh's production falls under the direction of the Defense Production Act and must be given first priority by direction of our Government authorities. These materials are critical components in both medical device manufacturing as well as utilities essential to critical infrastructure.

Accordingly, we are determined to continue operations at this time, taking all appropriate precautions as we do so.

Sincerely,

Adam Chase
